

The Austrian Cultural Forum Translation Prize

The Austrian Cultural Forum New York is pleased to announce the Austrian Cultural Forum Translation Prize, aimed at the promotion of intercultural exchange between the Republic of Austria and the United States. This initiative will support translators of contemporary Austrian Literature into English with a grant of €3000.

Applications are evaluated by a transatlantic advisory board, comprised of Andreas Stadler (Director, ACFNY), Hannah Liko (Deputy Director, ACFNY), Ricky Stock (German Book Office, New York), Fatima Naqvi (Rutgers University), Michael Orthofer (The Literary Saloon), Martin Rauchbauer (Director, Deutsches Haus at NYU, and Daniela Strigl (University of Vienna).

Scope and Eligibility

The ACF Translation Prize supports translations of contemporary Austrian fiction, poetry, and drama that have preferably not appeared previously in English. The award will be disbursed upon the formal acceptance of the manuscript by a publishing house, which must occur within a period of three years.

Applicants are asked to submit the following material with their application:

1. Completed cover sheet (see reverse side, or download at www.acfny.org).
2. 20-page, single-spaced sample of the translation.
3. Description of the project and its significance (no more than one to two pages, single-spaced).
4. Biography and bibliography of the author, including information on translations of his or her work into other languages.
5. CV of the translator (no more than three pages).

Austrian Cultural Forum Translation Prize Cover Sheet

Fill in the required information below and include one copy of this cover sheet for each translation project.

Translator's name:

Mailing address:

Phone number:

E-mail address:

Title of project:

Author:

Length of project:

Brief description of project (no more than three lines):

Does the project have a publisher?

Publisher's name:

(If there is a publisher, please include a copy of the contract with the application.)